MISSING PERSONS INVESTIGATORS (MPI) LIBRARY

The MPI Library is a distribution mechanism for resources that will help improve missing persons investigations across Canada by sharing written material and encourage a community of practice.

Access is limited to police investigators. It is a hub for national and provincial centres as well as police agencies to share useful material within the community of practice. The library may also be used to distribute notices of training, events and other news of interest to this community.

Materials are provided wherever possible in English and French, but appear in the language(s) provided by the contributor.

The collection is curated by the National Centre for Missing Persons and Unidentified Remains (NCMPUR).
